

Generation Crisis.

One crisis, one problem, one Europe – one solution?

Brussels, 17-23 April 2016

Call for Participants! Application Deadline (extended): 8 March 2016

Discussing. Understanding. Reporting.

More than half of all young people seeking employment cannot find decent work in many countries in the South of the European Union. Despite considerable political effort this trend that remains persistent, and now is shifting to the East and North. As youth unemployment turns from a “skills gap” issue into a problem that affects every young person, including those with university degrees, we begin to see the repercussions: the support for the European Union wavers, the votes for Eurosceptics rise, and an entire generation’s belief in the value and relevance of the European idea begins to crumble. Against this backdrop, we want to pick up the debates that are happening across the continent, across the political spectrum, and across generations. What impact does the EU crisis have on the lives of young Europeans? Why is the media discourse so lopsided? Why is a Union as wealthy as ours not able to provide its young people with a prospect of employment?

About the project

We will investigate, question and report the EU crisis, its causes and effects, the responses and failures, the underlying reasons and growing resentments. We will document its impact, capture different arguments and portray the key players in a captivating multimedia dossier. Small teams with young media-makers from Spain and Germany will work under the guidance and with the support of media professionals to conceptualise, investigate and report the crisis in a variety of print, video and online formats. Check: www.generationcrisis.org/dossier!

We want you!

Are you between the ages of 18 and 30, experienced in media-making, and able to independently complete your own media project within 5 days? Have you worked in journalism or politics and would like to learn more about it? APPLY NOW by filling in the application form at www.generationcrisis.org/apply and submitting an English CV. Deadline for applications: March 8, 2016.

Eligible candidates include:

- Young people interested and experienced in media-making, such as young journalists, bloggers, podcasters, filmmakers, ...
- Young people interested in policy-making
- Aged 18-30 and able to communicate professionally in English
- We particularly welcome applications from young people who are unemployed.

We kindly ask for a participation fee of 75 EUR. All costs for accommodation, travel, and programme will be included.

In a nutshell

Where: Brussels, Belgium

When: 17-23 April 2016

Who: 20 young media makers from Spain and Germany

How to apply: Fill in the application form on www.generationcrisis.org/apply and submit your CV in English by March 8, 2016.

Costs: Participation fee of 75 EUR

Contact: hello@generationcrisis.org

Partners & Organisations

'Generation Crisis' is a project series of the Berlin based think-tank Demokratie & Dialog in collaboration with the Association of Human Rights Educators AHEAD from Barcelona. Demokratie & Dialog runs the leading portal on youth policy at www.youthpolicy.org. It is an organisation that generates and consolidates knowledge and information on youth policies across the policy cycle, ranging from analysis and policy formulation to implementation and evaluation. AHEAD is one of the most experienced organisations in the Spanish youth sector. 'Generation Crisis' is generously hosted by the Friedrich Ebert Stiftung Brussels and funded by the German Representation of the European Commission. The project is supported by the German association of young media makers Jugendpresse Deutschland.

Project Coordination

Lisa Magdalena Richter
Demokratie & Dialog e.V.
Scharnhorststraße 28-29
10115 Berlin

E-Mail: lisa@generationcrisis.org

Phone: +49 30 30 87 84 554